Mr. Rayetsky represents real estate owners, developers, design professionals, contractors and other members of the construction industry in litigation and transactional matters. "As one of our most supportive recent alumni over the past few years, Max was an obvious candidate for the Emerging Leaders Committee of our Advisory Board. Since we opened our doors in 2017, our Advisory Board members have been invaluable to our strategic planning, career development support for students, and industry outreach. I look forward to continuing to collaborate with Max in his new role as we continue to enhance our academic and pre-professional programs, and build on the Law School's longstanding reputation for excellence, in the area of real estate law," said Robert J. Sein, Director of the Mattone Family Institute for Real Estate Law.
